Benade starts his artworks from portrait photography which he has collected over years and uses them as a mere guide. When painting these faces, the artwork explores a depth deeper than just a portrait.

The artworks reveal the complexities and emotions of a person from Benade's unique gaze.

Benade explains, "The way one person views another can be completely different from someone else's perspective. When I see someone, their whole appearance is changed by the influence of emotion and experiences. I draw from issues in my own life and mirror it in the portrait."

Jaco Benade is an accomplished South African oil painter currently based in Port Elizabeth. Benade started his art career in 1992 when he studied fine arts at the Technikon of Pretoria, while already having a background in architecture and graphic Design. In 1994 Benade received the Merit Prize in the SASOL New Signatures competition, establishing his position as an artist. Benade has exhibited his work in various national galleries with great success and six solo shows and various group exhibitions throughout his career. His work has been acquired by international collectors as well as amongst others ABSA, Rand Merchant Bank and Sanlam in South Africa.
